Case Study

IMPROVING SECURITY SYSTEMS FOR THE EDGBASTON PRIORY CLUB

The Edgbaston Priory Club is a private members club offering tennis, squash, and racket ball along with a gym, exercise studio, indoor and outdoor heated swimming pools. After undergoing a multi-million-pound refurbishment, the club was looking to enhance the security systems across the site to ensure the safety of both their members and staff.

Based on the site's requirements, Connaught recommended a leading Paxton Access Control Solution as well as an IP CCTV surveillance solution to enable monitoring across the site. Due to the site operating on a membership only basis, it was necessary for them to have a door access system that would require each member to register on entry and exit.

Connaught installed a combined solution using both Paxton's Net2 and biometric technologies to ensure the highest level of security. This not only guarantees safeguarding for their members but also enables roll call functionality in the event of an emergency evacuation. The system also has the functionality for access to be granted on a user by user basis, therefore restricting access to employee only areas.

The Edgbaston Priory Club is located within 14 acres of land, making remote monitoring of all corners of the site essential. With the use of wi-fi bridges and pole mounted cameras, the management team can quickly and easily monitor the site from a centralised location. The commissioned project included 32 IP cameras across the site. However, the club can easily extend this with further cameras should it be necessary with future growth.

Challenges

- Large site with inability to remote monitor all areas
- No centralised management of access for private members
- Unable to restrict access between employee and member areas

Value Created

- Access control and biometric technologies allows for monitoring of members entering and leaving the site
- Enhanced health and safety with roll call features in the event of an emergency
- IP CCTV surveillance system enables monitoring of all areas of the club from a centralised location
